FINAL EXERCISES AT THE UNIVERSITY

Closing Days of Eighty-Fourth Session of Virginia's Historic Institution—Organ Recital Given in Cabell Hall.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] den Cook, of Ivy Depot.

The report of the retiring president showed that the past year had been one of the very best in the history of the association. Four hundred and seventy members had been enrolled, a majority of the student body. Special stress had been laid on missionary work. A large delegation having been sent to the international Student Volunteer Convention at Rochester, N. Y., during the Christmas holidays. The Virginia delegation included Dr. Charles W. Kent, Dr. R. W. Garnett, Dr. W. W. Brockman, R. W. Wood, Harry L. Spratt, William M. Nett and Conrad Goodwin.

The new officers, who now assume the management of the association, are: President, Harry Lee Spratt, of Richmond; B. A. of Emory and Henry College, and having played third base on the Roanoke State League baseball team; Vice-President, William Newton Neff, of Chilhowie; Recording Secretary, Edwin W. Holladay, of Charlottesville; Treasurer, Dr. Hugh M. McIlhenny, Jr., of the university; General Secretary, Dr. W. W. Brockman, of the university.

At 8 o'clock to-night in Cabell Hall was delivered the annual address before the Young Men's Christian Association of the university by Rev. Theodor H. Rice, D. D., of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, and former pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga.

Several of the city churches closed their doors, and two of the local ministers—Dr. Gliby C. Kelly, of the First Methodist Church, and Dr. Henry W. Batt, of the High Street Baptist Church—participated in the service.

There were selections on the pipe organ by Prof. W. H. Jones, of Norfolk. The annual report of the association was made by Richard Vipon Taylor, Jr., of Norfolk, and A. and M. D. Taylor, who for three years have served as president of the association. Dr. Taylor, after serving one year as interne at the Post-Graduate Hospital, New York, will leave for China to join his brother, Dr. C. Taylor, who is the university's representative on the foreign field. The University of Virginia has sent a larger number of representatives to the foreign field than any other State institution in America, and more than most denominations of colleges. This year there are sailing for China three University of Virginia men—Rev. Thomas Nelson and Rev. Robert Goodwin, who are just graduates of the Union Theological Seminary at Alexandria, and the Rev. Duane Holladay, a Charlottesville boy, who has just completed a course at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond.

During the past session the University of Virginia has maintained a missionary band of eight students, all of whom are planning to go as foreign missionaries in the near future. These are Rockwell Emerson Smith, M. D., of Campina, Brazil, S. A., who will spend next year as interne at Wigham Hospital, Waltham, Mass.; Richard V. Taylor, Jr., of Mobile, Ala.; Conrad Harrison Goodwin, B. A., of Richmond; Owen Randolph Esley, B. A., of Lynchburg, Va. (all of whom graduate this year); and Daniel, at home on furlough from Korea and following, who are to be the nucleus of a band for next year. R. Warner Wood of Farmington, Samuel Sullivan Irving, B. A., of Mt. Airy, N. C., and Roy Sel-
